

Rick Paul and Ashlea Schwarz founded Paul LLP after years of litigating high stakes commercial cases together. We have fought against some of the biggest companies in the country, including Syngenta, Dow Chemical, Monsanto, JPMorgan Chase, Phillips 66, and General Motors. And we have won big. We founded the firm on two overriding principles: (1) a strong passion for litigating cases on behalf of our clients; and (2) a desire to make meaningful, industry-wide changes that create reshaped markets and improved lives.

We have recovered nearly three billion dollars for our clients through trial, arbitration, and settlement. We have handled some of the largest cases in the country against the largest, most well-funded and well-represented companies. And, we do not just litigate—we prepare cases for trial and take cases to trial.

Agriculture

The agricultural industry is rapidly consolidating and launching new biotechnology products every year. Located in the Midwest, we have a deep knowledge of how law and agriculture intersect, including the areas of negligence, chemical-drift, trespass, antitrust, food safety, trade, marketing, and resource management. The agricultural and biotechnology industries are highly regulated with a complex web of state and federal regulations, many of which give rise to preemption issues. Our lawyers have handled a wide variety of cases in this area of the law and are well-versed in the statutory and regulatory issues that arise in litigation related to agriculture in individual, mass, and class actions.

Antitrust

Antitrust laws were enacted to ensure that businesses operate fairly and to safeguard the integrity of a free market. Our lawyers have both prosecuted and defended antitrust actions in the agriculture, technology, and health care industries. We handle both antitrust class actions as well as individual cases. We make sure that companies who engage in unfair business practices are kept in check, allowing other businesses the opportunity to compete in a fair marketplace.

Class Actions

We know how difficult it is for a single person to bring a case against a large corporation or entity. The enormity of this task prevents many people from pursuing legitimate claims, which allows companies to continue with unsafe, unlawful, or unfair practices. These are often pervasive, industry-wide violations. Our attorneys have the skill set necessary to bring about meaningful change through class litigation.

Commercial Litigation

Partnerships within or between businesses often lead to disputes. When partnerships are exploited, or contracts are not followed through on, we help pick up the pieces.

Commodities

Being a Midwest law firm, we know commodities litigation. From grains, farm animals, oil and gas, precious metals, we have handled a broad spectrum of commodities-related litigation. We are familiar with the commodities exchanges, the statutory and regulatory environment, and the jargon of these industries.

Products Liability

We have a breadth of experience in ensuring manufacturers take responsibility for products that cause harm or injury to consumers. Injury and financial harm can result from products with faulty design or improper manufacturing, as well as a company's failure to warn consumers of possible injury or unwanted side effects from use of that product.

Paul LLP represented consumers exposed to Roundup who developed non-Hodgkins Lymphoma resulting in a $7.25 million settlement.

In re P&G Aerosol Products Marketing and Sales Practices Litigation (U.S. District Court, Southern District of Ohio)

Served as Settlement Class Counsel in action over benzene exposure in aerosol products such as deodorant. The firm negotiated an $8 million settlement.

The Results We Have Achieved

In re Eclipse Aviation Depositor Litigation (Bernalillo County, New Mexico)

Negotiated a settlement of approximately $49 million on behalf of purchasers of jet aircraft.

Malloy v. Pratt & Whitney (U.S. District Court, Northern District of Oklahoma)

Negotiated a $2.1 million settlement for a product liability claim for defective aircraft engines.

In re Air Crash of N51RX (Santa Fe County, New Mexico)

The firm negotiated a complex 8-figure settlement in a 5-death air ambulance crash with multiple defendants and insurance companies.

In re General Motors Dex-Cool Cases (Alameda County Superior Court, California; Jackson County Circuit Court, Missouri; Southern District of Illinois, MDL 1562)

Was appointed Co-Lead Counsel in federal MDL and Co-Lead Class Counsel in two state courts, obtaining one of the largest automotive defect settlements of all time.

The Results We Have Achieved

In re Great Plains Air Lines
(U.S. Bankruptcy Court, Northern District of Oklahoma)

Negotiated a confidential settlement with officers and directors of defunct regional airline carrier.

In re Mountain Energy Corp.
(U.S. Bankruptcy Court, Western District of Missouri)

Negotiated a 14-party settlement with more than $60 million recovery.

In re Oak Hills Drilling & Operating Co.
(U.S. Bankruptcy Court, Eastern District of Oklahoma)

Obtained judgment after trial for over $1.5 million on behalf of a bankrupt estate.

Malloy v. Commerce Bank (District Court of Tulsa County, Oklahoma)

Negotiated settlement for claims alleging aiding and abetting breach of fiduciary duty, fraudulent transfers, and civil conspiracy on behalf of a bankruptcy estate.

The Team at Paul LLP

THE LAWYERS AND REPUTATION WE ENJOY

A substantial portion of our practice involves the prosecution of class, collective, and mass actions. We often lead multi-faceted, nationwide teams of co-counsel in complex commercial litigations. Our colleagues in the legal community trust our experience, work ethic, and breadth of knowledge to usher a case from conception to a winning decision, especially if that means going to trial.

Rick specializes in complex antitrust, business, product liability, and consumer litigation—typically involving class or mass actions. Rick graduated from the University of Missouri-Columbia School of Law, where he served as Associate Managing Editor of the Missouri Law Review. After law school, Rick was a judicial law clerk at the Missouri Supreme Court and the Missouri Court of Appeals, Western District. In 1996, he began private practice with the firm formerly known as Shughart Thomson & Kilroy, a large Kansas City law firm with offices in Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, and Arizona. In 2002, the Board of Directors of Shughart Thomson elected him a Shareholder and Director. In 2008, Rick moved his practice to Stueve Siegel Hanson LLP. In May 2013, Rick started Paul LLP.

Rick has recovered nearly $3 billion for his clients through trial or settlement. Rick has been appointed by numerous courts across the country to serve as lead counsel in class and mass actions and in MDL proceedings.

Rick enjoys being in the courtroom and has tried and won many types of cases in jury trials, bench trials, and arbitrations. He has repeatedly been brought into a case shortly before trial for just that purpose. Rick served as trial counsel in the In re Syngenta Litigation pending in the Minnesota Fourth Judicial District. Rick was co-lead trial counsel for the first individual bellwether trial as well as the Minnesota class action trial. During the third week of the Minnesota class trial, the litigation was settled on behalf of all farmers (individual and classes) across the country. Rick has also argued more than 40 appeals to various state and federal appellate courts and briefed over 100 appeals.

Rick is active in the local bar, including the Kansas City Metropolitan Bar Association. He has served as Vice-Chair on the Business Torts Committee, where he authored the Chapter on Fiduciary Duties for the Business Torts Handbook. Rick is a frequent speaker and moderator at seminars and presentations on trial-related issues. In 2006, Missouri Lawyers Weekly named Rick as one of eight "Up and Coming Lawyers." He is annually named a "Missouri/Kansas Super Lawyer" and has an AV Preeminent Peer Review Rating with Martindale-Hubbell.

Ashlea, Managing Partner of Paul LLP, litigates complex business disputes including claims for negligence, breach of contract, breach of fiduciary duty, fraud, and misrepresentation. Her passion lies in representing individuals exposed to toxic chemicals at work, at home, and often during pregnancy. Ashlea has recovered over $300 million for agricultural workers exposed to pesticides while working in the fields to put food on our tables. She also represents clients in a range of litigation matters including complex, consumer class actions.

Ashlea has represented thousands of clients from the inception of a case through a verdict and litigated nearly 100 mass and class actions. Ashlea has taken 6 cases to trial, including three collective/class actions where she recovered over $5 million collectively for her clients. In addition to being a part of the Syngenta trial team that secured a $1.51 billion settlement three weeks into trial, Ashlea has taken 6 additional cases to trial, winning over $6 million on behalf of her clients. Her practice is nationwide and traditionally includes multi-party and multi-district litigation.

Ashlea remains involved in the legal community through her work as a former board member for the Kansas City Metropolitan Bar Association and Current Past President of the Kansas City Bar Association's Federal Court Advocates Section, and subcommittee chair for American Women Lawyers. In 2014, she was named one of Missouri Lawyers' Weekly's "Up and Coming Lawyers," an award recognizing litigators under age 40 who demonstrate excellence in the legal profession and in their commitment to their communities. Ashlea continues to be selected yearly as a Kansas City Business Journal Rising Star and is a Missouri/Kansas Super Lawyer. Additionally, in 2022 she was selected to the Missouri Lawyers' Weekly's POWER List of Commercial & Consumer Litigation Attorneys and received their Women's Justice Litigation Practitioner Award.

Paul LLP is committed to making revolutionary changes to the way businesses conduct themselves. While money is the driver of many cases, what can and should be just as important is making sure the same bad acts don't happen again in the future. That is what we strive for; victories that bring about industry-wide changes. Our goal is to enact meaningful, fair, and lasting change to corporate policy, regulations, and law for the benefit of all people.
